Adams Democratic Committee Re-elects Fred G. Klunk For 9th Time; Push Registration

Fred G. Klunk, New Oxford, was re-elected chairman of the county Democratic party Friday night by acclamation at the biennial meeting of the Democratic committee to select their new officers.

The election took place 40 minutes late. The approximately 100 Democratic committeemen arrived for their meeting at 8 o'clock to find the courthouse locked despite a reservation of the courtroom made some time ago.

Prothonotary Herbert Miller, who is a member of the Democratic committee, had not brought his key to the courthouse because he expected it would be open. Chairman Klunk finally was able to contact Janitor Dorsey Schultz by telephone. Schultz, whose working hours were shortened by the commissioners some weeks ago, came from his home to let the Democrats into the building.

Chairman Klunk opened the meeting by apologizing for the fact that "the best people in Adams County had to stand on the sidewalk for 40 minutes," and then said: "I have said nothing to anyone about by candidacy for re-election as county chairman because I want the committee to make its own choice. If I should be re-nominated and re-elected I will serve as faithfully as I have in the past." He then turned the meeting over to John Millard, Gettysburg Second Ward committeeman, and left the room.

Millard called for nominations and Klunk's name was placed in nomination, and seconded, within seconds. There were no other nominees. After asking again if there were any more nominations, Millard then admitted a motion to close the nominations and Klunk was elected by acclamation.

Millard, commenting, "I think you have made an excellent choice," called Klunk back into the room to preside for the remainder of the meeting.

PROMISES GOOD TUSSE
Klunk, who is director of the State Employees Retirement Board at Harrisburg, has been county chairman for nearly 18 years.

Telling the committeemen, "I appreciate your confidence," Klunk added: "I will do everything in my power as I have for the last 30 years and with your excellent help I feel confident we can give our Republican friends a good tussle come on November 5."

He added, "This is a crucial election and we have two excellent men in Senator Clark and Richardson Dilworth and if we tell the public our story, we can elect them without difficulty in November."

MRS. HARBAUGH RETAINED
Mrs. Marie Harbaugh, Gettysburg R. 5, who had served as vice chairman the last four years was re-elected to that post. Klunk said before the election of the vice chairman, "I would be remiss if I did not tell you that it has been enjoyable working with Mrs. Harbaugh the last four years."

Also elected unanimously was George Taughnbaugh, who was renominated as treasurer.

In a brief talk, Mrs. Harbaugh thanked the group and said: "This year I am going to call on every woman in the county to talk and talk so you can be heard. This is a crucial election for the Democratic party."

Chairman Klunk said he would name the party secretary and executive committee in the near future. He then had announced the organizational set up for a registration drive to be held this summer and fall.

Claude Hammond was named chairman for the registration drive with Emory Hammer and Miss Jean Miller as co-chairmen. The committee will meet on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Adams Electric Cooperative to start its plans for the drive.

The committee includes these "coordinators": For District 1, Abbottstown, Berwick Twp., East Berlin, Hamilton Twp., New Oxford, Oxford Twp. and Reading Twp., Clyde O. Garber, New Oxford R. 1.

Eisenhower Calls For Cuts In Defense Budget, Lashes Kennedy's Domestic Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower stunned Republicans as well as Democrats Friday night with a call for substantial cuts in the nation's $51.6-billion defense budget.

The former president's unexpected assertion that current military spending reflects "unjustified fears, plus a reluctance in some quarters to relinquish outmoded concepts" caught Republican congressional leaders short.

Eisenhower did not elaborate. He did not say where he would cut the defense spending which has been regarded by both parties as sacrosanct and above the debate over balancing the budget.

The former president bluntly put it this way at a $100-a-plate Republican party dinner:

WORK FOR STRENGTH
"On the military side, we Republicans will continue to work across the political aisle for strength unencumbered by waste, and strength not loaded by hysteria."

75 Newsmen Will Tour Battlefield

More than 75 members of the National Editorial Association will tour the battlefield here and attend a cocktail party and dinner at the Hotel Gettysburg on Tuesday. The Gettysburg junket is part of a post convention tour arranged for NEA members to see Pennsylvania.

The group held its 77th annual convention June 20-23 in Hershey in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association summer meeting. An eight-day state tour followed including visits to Pennsylvania Dutch country in Lancaster, a journey to Penn State and Fort Bedford, Du Pont's Longwood Gardens, Philadelphia and Valley Forge.

The group will lunch at Graefenburg Inn, Fayetteville, before touring the local field.

SAYS PHYSICAL FITNESS PLAN WORKED WELL

The Gettysburg public schools completed their first year as a pilot school in the National Youth Fitness program on May 1 and an announcement today by Superintendent of School H. Edgar Riegle said the "end results showed a marked improvement" in the participating youngsters.

"During this past school year the school solicited the help of the parents of each student to carry out the request for 15 minutes of vigorous physical activity by the pupils on five days of each week," Mr. Riegle said.

"The cooperation of the parents was magnificent and the end results showed marked improvements from the first to the last testing period."

INTEREST IN EQUIPMENT

"The students and their parents were very grateful for the brochure supplied them and the test score cards given them at the start of the program. These materials made it possible for students and parents to watch the physical development in accordance with the national standards presented by the President's Council on Youth Fitness. The drawings showing the proper way to perform various exercises were gratefully accepted and gave the home and the school a common understanding of the way each student was expected to perform."

"As the mutual desire of the student, parent and instructor was developing, there also was an interest shown by the parents to build equipment to satisfy the needs of the students away from school. As a result much information was given to parents and students which helped to build horizontal bars, construction of ropes for climbing, pits for jumping and securing soft balls to practice throwing. All these responses indicated the necessary interest to promote away from school the physical activities carried on in the school program."

SMALL IS IMPROVING

Thomas Small, pressman at the Gettysburg Times, who was operated upon Wednesday afternoon for the removal of a ruptured disc at the York Hospital, is getting along nicely. It was reported today, On Friday afternoon he was well enough to walk in the corridors. It is not known how long he will remain a patient at the hospital.

REPLACE SEWER LINES TO CUT OUT FLOODING

Replacement of 1,285 feet of sewer line in the W. Broadway and Constitution Ave. area has done much to cut down flooding troubles at Howard Ave. and at the sewer disposal plant, Francis Alberts, manager of the Gettysburg Municipal Authority, said today.

At the same time he urged persons who have home spoutings connected with the sanitary sewer system to disconnect the spoutings to help cut down the amount of "wild water" entering the system during rainfall.

While the borough has had an ordinance for many years prohibiting running spouting into the sanitary sewer system from the homes, there still are a number of homes connected, Alberts said he believes. Alberts said he has secured a dye to test whether spouting systems are connected with the sewer system. The check will begin "as soon as we can get time, but I hope that those people connected with the sewer will change their spouting before we get around to testing," Alberts said.

USING SEALED PIPE

The 1,285 feet of sewer along W. Broadway and Constitution Ave. was found to be of eight-inch terra cotta two-foot long sections of pipe simply joined together and not sealed. As a result all surface water in the area entered the sanitary sewer system "every time it rained" and that led to problems "all along the line." The new eight-inch transite pipe is sealed and surface water cannot enter it.

Another problem recently solved was replacement of 280 feet of sewer line back of Eisenhower School. There it was found (Continued On Page 3)

Action Started To Ban Salesman

Universal Stainless Cookware Co., Inc., of Tatamy, Pa., has started an action in equity in the Adams County court to prevent Larry D. Hankey, 64 W. Middle St., from selling cooking utensils, china or silverware within a 75-mile radius around Gettysburg until December 12.

According to the complaint filed in the prothonotary's office by Atty. Donald G. Oyler for the cookware company, Hankey became a salesman for the organization in this area on October 19, 1960. The company claims that Hankey, in signing the contract with them to become their representative, agreed that upon termination of the contract he would not engage in a similar occupation for a six-month period with 75 miles of Gettysburg.

On June 12, the company claims, Hankey terminated his employment with them and began soliciting orders for "Vollrath Co., a competitor."

The complaint asks a court injunction causing Hankey to cease selling cooking utensils, etc., and asks that Hankey pay them damages and pay the costs of the case.

CHURCH YOUTHS ARE TOLD OF PEACE CORPS

The Peace Corps expect to have about 2,400 people in its program by the end of this summer. Richard Graham, director of recruitment, told members of the Lutheran Summer Service orientation conference at Gettysburg College Friday night. By that time it also expects to have projects established in 38 countries around the world.

At present, about half-way into its second year, the program includes 1,285 persons and has established projects in 15 countries, Mr. Graham said. June and July, however, are the months when most people enter the corps.

Although he pointed out the great variety of skills requested by various countries, Mr. Graham noted that 48 per cent of the volunteers now in service are teaching. Nurses, home economists, social workers, engineers, mechanics, carpenters are only a few of the other types of training and skill that are being requested.

THIRD ARE WOMEN

Mr. Graham said that the Peace Corps is not seeking "professional" volunteers. He stressed that help was sent to a country for a specific project on the invitation of the government of that country, and would move out any time the host country felt the need for it no longer existed. He also said generally volunteers finishing two (Continued On Page 2)

Saves Worker's Life By Quick Thinking

HARRISBURG (AP)—Quick thinking by a fellow worker saved a crane operator from serious injury or death when the rig's boom brushed a 12,000-volt power line. When the boom fused with the line in a shower of deadly sparks Friday, crane-man J. F. Reininger of Middletown, was about to jump from his cab.

But Edwin S. Thomson, 53, Harrisburg, warned him to stay put, lest he be electrocuted. The mishap occurred at an oil company depot near the Harrisburg east interchange of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.
The Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. cut power to several communities for more than an hour while Reininger was removed safely and the crane freed from the wire.

GUS TASSELL SELLS "LOOK" TO MRS. JFK

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bushy-haired Gus Tassell has a "look" and Jackie Kennedy's buying it.

But favor by the President's lady is only one reason Tassell has become one of the nation's hottest new fashion designers. He's recognized as a comer with his last $200 during a California vacation. For kicks, he says, he borrowed $2,000, got some help from a seamstress and stitched up his first collection—five dresses.

"I invited a few buyers," he recalls. "The room was so small, they had to sit on the cutting tables."

GETS TOP AWARD

Not only did the buyers pull out their order books, but three years later, last summer, Tassell won a Coty Award, presented by fashion critics to the year's outstanding designers.

Then last fall, Mrs. John F. Kennedy announced she was taking some Tassells on her trip with the President to Latin America. Tassell's name cropped up again in her wardrobe list for her India-Pakistan tour. And, confides the designer, Mrs. Kennedy's sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, who went along on the journey, packed one of his linen sheaths.

LOOK IS SIMPLE

What is it about Gus Tassell's clothes that appeal to fashionable women?

"I have a look," says Tassell. "Some stores can't sell my clothes at all. Others are selling so many my business has doubled every year since I started."

"It's a simple look. I don't feel clothes have to be contrived. I don't believe in tricks in cut or stitching."

"A certain kind of woman buys my clothes. She isn't any particular age or figure. But she likes elegant clothes with correct, subtle lines and fabric."

"My dresses are not snob dresses. One woman will put one on and say 'I look great,' another will say, 'I look outrageous.'"

GOES FOR COTTON

Tassell's look is shaped, but not cinched; flowing, not boxy. Last year, he favored a loose-backed style. He says he tired of it because it lacked subtlety and dropped it this year from most of his collection.

His summer collection goes heavily for cotton or cotton blend fabrics, with silk for late day.

"I'm inspired, not influenced, by Paris," he says. "I readily admit it."

"Paris is still the creative capital of the fashion world. American designers have as much to say, but in America, fashion is more of a business than art."

LIKE PAINTING

"Fashion designing is like painting; there are many different schools. I feel I belong to the school of Balenciaga and Norelli. That doesn't mean I make Balenciaga or Norelli clothes. It's more like belonging to the Impressionist or Cubist school of painting."

Tassell says he tries to get a theme for each collection.

"This summer it's for women planning to travel."

CONVERTIBLE LOOK

He achieves a convertible look, dear to women watching their air baggage allowance, by going in heavily for costumes.

None of his creations are custom-made. And Tassell likes it that way.

"I don't like standing around while a woman tells me, 'Take it in a little here.'"

His clothes can be purchased—off the rack—in any one of 35 department and specialty stores, albeit high priced ones, from New York to San Francisco.

FLIES OFF HANDLE

Tassell's line is turned out by ample ladies in cotton print aprons leaning over whirling sewing machines. They chatter in Mexican Spanish, miraculously not swallowing the pins which bristle from their lips.

Tassell directs them in Seventh Avenue lingo:

"Bessie, dearie, you've got to baste before you stitch, honey. Otherwise it comes out crooked, sweetheart."

TURNED TO ARTS

Although his father is in the equipment rental business back in his native Philadelphia, both Tassell and his sister gravitated to the arts. She's a television actress, Rebecca Welles. After studying painting in Philadelphia, Tassell decided designing was more lucrative and moved to New York, doing display work for Hattie Carnegie and sketching for a ready-to-wear dress firm.

The Army got Tassell for a while, then in 1947, he returned to Philadelphia for a three-year venture into custom designing on his own.

MRS. JFK HELPS

He gave it up to return to Carnegie, as a designer, then took off for a two-year stint in Europe. He sketched for some minor houses, did a little free-best authority in the country on the defense budget," Halleck said. "If he thinks it should be cut, I believe we can find places to do it."

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., was somewhat taken aback by Eisenhower's suggestion. But he rose quickly to respond.

"I have always thought," Scott said, "that any agency of government could take at least a 10 per cent cut in its budget. Perhaps the Defense Department would provide a tighter operation if it were cut by 10 per cent."

ATTACKS JFK POLICY

Eisenhower and his wife, Mamie, had an autograph-signing good time. Republicans of all shades of opinion lined up to get the signatures that were still regarded as valuable in GOP ranks.

When the amenities were over, the former president tore into Kennedy's administration on almost every domestic issue.

Eisenhower said among other things that "our national economy has become uncertain, fearful, ill at ease."

He said it was obvious that the Kennedy administration "was floundering, thrashing aimlessly and a bit desperately about—in the surging financial, fiscal and economic currents of our time."

either 9 or 9:45 o'clock Monday morning with his instrument. It was noted that a larger number of parochial school children signed for music and the hope was expressed that even larger numbers of that group and larger numbers of high school age will sign for the music program.

TO START CRAFTS

Recreation Director Lee Raf-fensperger said the crafts program will begin next week with teachers visiting the various play areas.

The crafts program this year will feature the making of leather beanie and belts.

Two hundred thirty-three signed at the older playgrounds where general activities included the organization of pee wee and minor baseball leagues for the boys and softball leagues for the girls. It was announced that additional boys aged 10 to 12 are needed for the minor league teams, especially at Keefeauver playground and Recreation Park.

HISTORICAL HIKE

At Eisenhower playground baseball, archery, box hockey, tetherball and croquet were featured this week. Next week's activities will include a treasure hunt, introduction of volleyball, archery swimming and hikes.

At the Keefeauver playground a historical hike was held this week. Next week's activities include a nature hike, kickball, table games, story telling, volleyball and field hockey and resumption of the Keefeauver newspaper.

At Recreation Park this week organization of baseball and softball teams was effected. Next week a volleyball league will be organized. Wednesday afternoon a horse shoe tournament will begin. A special program will be held Friday starting at 1 o'clock in the afternoon with games for all ages.

The season opened Tuesday but rain on Wednesday cut activities that day.

lancing, browsed through Europe's art treasures and evolved his simplicity of line.

Winding up in California, Tassell picked the right time to go into business for himself again, he says.

"The type of dress I prefer, the 'little nothing,' was just coming into fashion. And, of course, the fact that Mrs. Kennedy has made that look desirable has helped a great deal."

"I just want things to keep going as they have been. I want to keep building up my 'look' until it's so strong that I can go on then, venturing into something different."

REPLACE SEWER

that the pipe replaced had been clogged with roots "so badly we took pictures of it because we felt others might not believe it."

The sewage rate at the sewer disposal plant at the present time has been running "about 500,000 to 600,000 gallons a day due to the dry weather," Alberts said. Previously in time of heavy rain the inflow reached and sometimes passed the 1,500,000 gallon capacity of the plant. So far heavy rains have not pushed gallonage above the 1,000,000 mark, but "there is indication that 'wild water' is getting into the system somewhere," Alberts said. Continued search as repairs are made and otherwise, "will in time disclose where we are getting the water," Alberts said. He added, however, "It is impossible to make a system 100 per cent water tight as it were—some 'wild water' always gets into it, but since we replaced the Constitution Ave.-Broadway section we seem to have cut out much of our problem."

PLEASED BY INSPECTION

Another recent problem was solved by action of a local plant according to Alberts. A dye was coloring all of the sewage and "nothing we could do seemed to break it down." The source was discovered at a local plant and the trouble was faulty operation of a settling tank. Renovations were made and now the dye is settling out in the tank and no longer enters the local system.

Latest report turned in to the Municipal Authority of an inspection of the sewer disposal plant was that of Elvin F. Hoover, regional sanitary engineer of the State Department of Health, Lewistown, who stated he was "very well pleased" with the plant and its operation.

Alberts also reported securing a new chemical which it is believed will solve a problem occurring on hot muggy nights when gases accumulate because they cannot dissipate and sometimes cause an odor in the Rock Creek area.

MARKET HITS FOUR-YEAR LOW

NEW YORK (AP)—Hit by five consecutive losing sessions, the stock market languished today at its lowest level in nearly four years.

A sharp setback Friday capped a week of decline. An expected rally failed to materialize and the popular market averages sank through the year's low point reached May 29 at the bottom of the worst sell-off since 1929.

Brokers seeking reasons for the continued drop speculated that investors continued to be plagued by the emotional factors which triggered the big plunge May 28. Among these, they said, was anxiety over the business outlook.

Work Progresses On New Route 15

This will be the "end of the line" temporarily for the new Route 15 from Harrisburg to Maryland. The car shown on present Route 15 is at just about the point the new highway will connect with present Route 15 when it is completed in 1963. The tractor at work on the pile of earth east of present Route 15 shows the general area where the road eventually will "pick up" to continue around the eastern outskirts of Emmitsburg to join Route 15 south of that town. The site is near the cemetery north of Emmitsburg, just east of present Route 15. (Times photo)

A view of the new Route 15, near Fairplay. Taken from the west side of the bridge constructed there, it shows how the new road will proceed under the bridge and past the barn at Moritz Tavern toward Marsh Creek. The bridge in the foreground will carry present Route 15 over the new road being constructed from the Maryland line to Shriver's Corner. (Times photo)

Work on the new Route 15 is progressing rapidly south of the Lincoln Highway, a mile east of town. Shown is the general route of the new road through the area, with earth movers, graders and rollers in operation. In the distance a crane can be seen breaking stone. In the far distance, at the break in the trees, where the roadway is being cleared, smoke from burning brush can be seen. (Times photo)

Increase Surplus Fund: The Board of Directors of the First National Bank of Gettysburg at their regular meeting in the bank this week transferred $10,000 to the surplus fund bringing that fund to $230,000.

Reports For Duty: Charles B. Bender Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Bender, 45 E. Broadway, Friday reported for training as an air cadet. A graduate of Gettysburg, his first assignment is to Sampson Air Force Base, Geneva, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bushman and daughter, Marianne, Baltimore St., left Saturday on a trip to the West Coast. They will visit Mr. Bushman's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bushman, Oxnard, Cal., and also his cousin, Francis X. Bushman, well known movie star, at Hollywood. They expect to be gone four or five weeks.

Accepts New Post: Robert Browning Rau, Gettysburg College Campus, who on July 1 terminates his services as secretary to Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, Gettysburg College president, has accepted the position of director of guidance at the Valley Forge Military Academy, Wayne, Pa., where Major General Milton Baker is superintendent. Mr. Rau is a graduate of Gettysburg College and Seminary. He has served as assistant to the college president and a college instructor in shorthand and typewriting for several years.

The General's Mother: Dwight Eisenhower's mother was not there when he came home to Abilene the other day. She has gone now. The spirit of her, though, is so strong that it breathes from every corner of their home. Indeed, the old house is a perfect self-portrait, something she made and colored forever with the rich, deep shades of personality. Her niece, Mrs. Ray Etherington, still lives up the road a way. She calls her "Aunt Ida." "She must have been very strong," I said, "as a person." "She was," Mrs. Etherington said. "Of them all, Aunt Ida was the most vivid, the dominant one. Of course, you wouldn't think it to look at her." In the photographs of her as a young woman, her chin is small and pointed. There is a firmness about her mouth and yet the faintest shadow of a smile. Her hair is thick and it looks dark in the picture. In her eyes is that same intimation of a smile, something felt rather than seen. Her eyebrows are high and dark, and they give her an arch, knowing expression. This expression must have been very marked on her face when she pretended not to notice that the boys had taken her bread dough from the old Pennsylvania Dutch dough tray in the kitchen, rolled it into balls and were playing catch behind her back. And all her life she pretended not to recognize the nickname, "Ike," although every one of the boys — and not Dwight

Today's Talk

PAUSE
There is danger in both too much and too little speed. If you go too fast, you neglect and pass what you ought to do and see.

If you go too slowly, you see too much, or too many things pass you. So I think a very good plan to pursue is this:

PAUSE!
Think out your next move — and then step — not too fast, not too slow. But be sure, and be decisive.

Pause!
Marshall Field Sr., that great Chicago merchant, used to say that if he couldn't buy from a man, he could at least listen to what he had to say — thinking that he might learn something from him.

Field was willing to pause a minute here and there — to improve the value of his own time.

Pause!
While this is the only life you will ever live in a flesh body, there still is no need for too much hurrying, too much worrying, too much stampeding.

Pause a minute.
Get your bearings. Smile while you pause. But don't pause — just pause.

Think while you pause!

Just Folks

HEREDITY
I am like him, so they say,
Who was dead before I came.
Cheeks and mouth and eyes of gray
Have been fashioned much the same.

I am like her, so they say,
Who was dead ere I was born,
And I walk the self-same way
On the paths her feet have worn.

There is that within my face
And the way I hold my head
Which seems strangely to replace
Those who long have joined the dead.

Thus across the distance far
In the body housing me
Both my great-grandparents are Kept alive in memory.

alone — was known as "Ike" at one time or another. "Ike?" she would say sweetly. "Who is Ike?" She was an intensely religious woman. The family Bible, with the names of her sons and their birth dates, lies open in the living room. In the book shelves are faded editions of "Bible Studies," "Our Beacon Light," "The Life of Christ," and "Religious Devotions." Framed mottoes from the Bible hang above the two brass bedsteads in the room she kept for herself and her husband. All this is just as it was when she went away for the last time. Except for one thing, and this is a thing she would not have permitted if she had been there because she never allowed things to lie around. Her wedding dress, of white silk and lace, lies diagonally across her bed for visitors to see. It is a size 9. She was a small woman. Yet she maintained a home for five boys and a man, by herself. Their home was a treasure house of good living, of warmth and comfort and books and music — she tried to teach each of the five boys the piano — and especially of a woman's loving care. It is all there today. And so is she.

Krick-Schultz: Miss Louise Gifford Schultz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Schultz, Gettysburg R. 3, became the bride of Robert Henry Krick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Krick, 244 Steinwehr Ave., at a double-ring ceremony held Sunday afternoon in Flohr's Lutheran Church, McKnightstown, with the Rev. Robert C. Schiebel officiating. Miss Carolyn Fisel, Gettysburg, was the maid of honor. Miss Catherine Rohrbaugh and Miss Eleanor Wickerham were bridesmaids. Herbert Bowling served as best man. Ushers were Richard Teregini and Fred Schultz, a brother of the bride. Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the Cashtown Fire Hall for 150 guests. A graduate of Gettysburg High School with the Class of 1961, the bride is employed at the Letterkenny Ordnance Depot, Chambersburg. The bridegroom is a graduate of Gettysburg High School with the class of 1960 and is a junior at Gettysburg College.

KEEPING MUM WON'T AVERT SLUMP CRISIS

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
WASHINGTON (AP) — Question: Can you avert an economic slump by keeping mum about the possibility there may be one? Answer: Not likely.

The question arises because of a rap-on-the-knuckles administered this week by the Kennedy administration to Ewan Clague, an official who sometimes speaks out of turn.

CLAGUE'S FINDINGS

Clague, the commissioner of labor statistics, in a talk in Atlantic City was quoted as saying charts indicate a recession in 1963, "the only question (being) exactly when it is coming."

Clague's chief, Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, quickly said in a statement "economic facts do not bear out such an assumption."

Then the Labor Department got in touch with Clague by phone, and put out a statement quoting him as saying his remarks were not a prediction.

NOT EXACT SCIENCE

Actually, of course, neither President Kennedy nor Secretary Goldberg has the foggiest notion whether 1963 will bring a slump. For economics is not an exact science, like astronomy for example.

Back in 1931, newsman Edward Angly got out a book entitled "Oh Yeah?" It would have been hilarious if anybody had felt like laughing that year.

It was simply a compilation of optimistic statements made by economists, businessmen, politicians and others before and during the great depression that began with the stock market crash of October, 1929.

EXAMPLES LISTED

A few examples:
Irving Fisher, economist, Sept. 5, 1929: "There may be a recession in stock prices, but not anything in the nature of a crash."

Charles E. Mitchell, chairman, National City Bank, Sept. 20, 1929: "There is nothing to worry about in the financial situation in the United States."

HOOVER QUOTED

President Herbert Hoover, Oct. 25, 1929: "The fundamental business of the country is on a sound and prosperous basis."

Henry Ford, Oct. 3, 1930: "The crash was a good thing. You watch!"

Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce, March 3, 1930: "As weather conditions moderate we are likely to find the country as a whole enjoying its wanted state of prosperity. Business will be normal in two months."

ARGUMENT GOES ON

The argument still continues as to what caused the big depression. Most experts say nowadays there cannot be another great depression: There are so many built-in economic cushions and the government has vast new powers.

This is one prediction everybody had better believe: the alternative is too lugubrious to contemplate.

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Dr. Gerald G. Nottenstein, superintendent of education in Montgomery County, resigned Thursday night to accept a similar post with the Plymouth-Whitemarsh jointure. His resignation is effective Sept. 1. He had held the post eight years. Nottenstein said he resigned because he wanted to accept a challenge in a new area and to work more closely with young people.

DENY LAXITY IN CRACKDOWN ON PA. B-GIRLS

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Liquor Control Board has denied a Republican charge that it has been lax in cracking down on the activities of B-girls in Pennsylvania.

F. C. Brennecke, liquor board enforcement officer, answered the charge Thursday night about four hours after it was made in a statement by George I. Bloom, Republican state chairman.

Bloom claimed that the Democratic-controlled board failed to follow up testimony before a Senate subcommittee in Washington that the so-called B-girls solicit drinks extensively from customers in Philadelphia bars and night clubs.

POINTS TO PHILA.

Brennecke replied by personally distributing to newsmen here copies of a letter he said had been sent earlier in the day to Sen. John McClelland, D-Ark., chairman of a subcommittee looking into the relationship between the American Guild of Variety Artists and nightclub owners.

Bloom said the investigation "pointed the spotlight at disgraceful conditions in many of Philadelphia's night clubs." He added:

Wreckers Raze Wrong House

BOSTON (AP)—A pile of rubble at 51-53 Greenwich St. marks the place where building wreckers tore down the wrong house.

Early in April, the city condemned a three-story wooden tenement at 10-12 Greenwich St.

When the owner failed to apply within 30 days for a permit to repair or demolish the building, the city awarded a wrecker a contract to tear it down.

Officials said the instructions to the wrecker specified the first three-decker on the left after entering Greenwich. That was fine if you entered from the low-number end of the street. But Greenwich is a one-way street and traffic enters from the high-number end. That's where the wreckers started counting.

By the time the error was discovered, the demolition had gone too far to change. The owner agreed to let the razing proceed and work out a damage settlement.

Arsonist Fails To Burn Church

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Police say an arsonist failed to set fire to the Dales Memorial Presbyterian Church because windows and doors to the study were shut tight, sealing the fire in the room.

A custodian found a pile of books smoldering on the floor of the study Friday. She slammed the door shut and called firemen.

Police said the arsonist broke a window in a side door of the study, piled books on the floor and set them on fire. They said the fire, deprived of oxygen, merely smoldered.

The board has resorted to the "extraordinary remedy of 'padlock proceedings' against the worst offenders" in cooperation with the Philadelphia district attorney.

"However," Brennecke continued, "no matter how strong our personal feelings may be concerning the offending scum who profit from human misery and frailty, we cannot resort to illegal or unconstitutional procedures in the enforcement of the law."

"To do so would be as morally wrong as are the practices we seek to curb."

He said only the legislature could authorize immediate revocation of liquor licenses for B-girl activities. And he doubted whether that authority would be given.

Curly Haired Kennedy "Angel" Adorns Carved Altar Panel In Vatican

WASHINGTON (AP)—A sculptured likeness of President Kennedy as a winged angel — for which he posed 23 years ago — is part of an altar panel in the Vatican, the Washington Post related Friday.

The Post, in a story by Winzola McLendon and quoting Washington sculptress Irena Wiley, said Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, posed for the figure in a wood sculptured panel in an altar which Mrs. Wiley carved and gave to the Vatican.

He was the "most charming and patient model," recalls Mrs. Wiley, wife of a foreign service officer, John Cooper Wiley.

The incident is contained in a book Mrs. Wiley has written, "Around the Globe in Twenty Years" which will be published in August by the David McKay Co.

According to Mrs. Wiley it happened in 1939 when Mrs. Wiley's husband was serving as a diplomat in Latvia and Estonia and President Kennedy's father was ambassador to the Court of St. James.

Kennedy, now 45, would have been 22 then.

Young Kennedy, who she said was "trying to learn as much as he could about Europe," came to spend a week or so of his summer vacation with the Wileys.

"I was doing an altar of St. Teresa of Lisieux, my favorite saint," says Mrs. Wiley. "And I needed a model for the angel in one of the panels. Jack with his curly hair and his youthful serenity of expression was literally God-sent."

The altar is a life-size statue in-the-round of St. Teresa and is surrounded by 12 panels, each depicting a chapter in the saint's life.

The panel for which Mrs. Wiley says President Kennedy posed shows an angel hovering over St. Teresa while she writes in a

Vaccination 1st Safeguard Against Hog Cholera Peril

FRANK ZETTLER
County Agent

Hog cholera has been building up in southeastern Pennsylvania and Maryland. All precautions should be exercised to keep this costly disease out of the herd. The following six ways are listed:

Properly vaccinate all pigs. New vaccination procedures are safe and effective insurance.

If any garbage is fed, cook it. Heating garbage to 160 degrees for 30 minutes destroys hog cholera virus and increases its food value.

Isolate herd additions for 30 days. Buy only properly vaccinated stock.

Keep away from farms where there are sick pigs. Disinfect footwear when returning from stock markets or other farms.

Keep livestock trucks, stock buyers and other visitors away from areas where swine are kept.

Maintain good sanitation — keep premises clean. Hog cholera can be expected on premises where sanitation is poor.

Department of Agriculture office at Harrisburg.

Identify by tattoo or ear tag every animal in the flock.

Keep a written record of all animals bought or sold.

Have sheep dipped in an approved dip under the supervision of a veterinarian, or a Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture inspector.

Certification will enable owners to show or sell sheep this year anywhere in the state without further dipping. All county and state shows and sales will require supervised dipping of all sheep within 10 days of the show or sale. Fitting animals dipped within such a short time will be nearly impossible, so it would be wise to have the flock certified scab-free and prevent unnecessary problems.

FARM CALENDAR

Sold For More — An average Pennsylvania farm of 120 acres of land and buildings sold for about $24,000 last year, reports B. Wayne Kelly, extension farm management specialist at Penn State. This was four per cent more than in 1960. More farm titles were also transferred to new owners.

Uniformity Good — Uneven growth and roughened plumage condition in the poultry flock usually indicates lack of normal health, improper nutrition, or faulty brooding, advises Herbert C. Jordan, extension poultry specialist. The flocks doing exceptionally well usually are quite uniform in size, development and feathering.

Big Business — One of every three school children ate a school lunch in the school year just ended, thanks to the National School Lunch Program. Harold Neigh, extension consumer marketing specialist at Penn State, says although some of the food is donated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, 80 per cent of the foods used are bought in local markets. The billion dollar bill for the lunch program is divided four ways: Free food from the USDA makes up a little more than 10 per cent; another 10 per cent in cash is provided by the national government; local and state funds make up another 20 per cent, and the remaining 60 per cent is paid for by the children.

Pinch That Mum — If your chrysanthemums were long and spindly last fall you probably didn't pinch the plants last spring and summer. Lynn Smith, extension flower specialist at Penn State, recommends pinching mums to remove the young growing tips; this makes the plant branch out. It doesn't get so long and leggy and produces more flowers. The job isn't difficult: Just remove the top half inch of each shoot, until about July 15 when flower buds start to form.

CARPENTER IS KILLED
MIFFLIN, Pa. (AP)—A 51-year-old carpenter was struck and killed by a falling beam Thursday while helping tear down a farm building near Green Park, Perry County.

The victim was identified as George Dennis Marshall of Mifflin Star Route, an employee of L. B. Husler, a contractor from Port Royal. Marshall suffered a fractured skull.

SCARSDALE IS WEALTHIEST IN UNITED STATES

SCARSDALE, N.Y. (AP)—Volunteer firemen still race to blazes in the nation's wealthiest community. Only one of four companies gets paid.

The community still calls itself a village, though it has about 19,000 residents. Some houses were built before the American Revolution.

There isn't a single major industry in the 6.3 square-mile area of tree-lined streets.

Teen-agers get into trouble running "drag races" with cars.

CALLED WEALTHIEST

Scarsdale is a residential suburb just north of New York City, situated in heavily Republican Westchester County. Its residents are largely luminaries of business, law, the arts and other professions.

Sales Management magazine this week tabbed it the nation's wealthiest community, saying the average family income is $29,276 a year.

The announcement caused little surprise in Scarsdale. It had won the honor before.

HALF ON EDUCATION

Fifty per cent of the tax dollar is spent on education. Teachers earn more than the average, and nearly half of the teachers hold advanced degrees.

For the second successive year, the high school drama group is being sent to perform in European countries. Nearly 99 per cent of the high school graduates will go to college or take advanced studies.

Dean Rusk was a resident until he left for Washington to become secretary of state. Others still enjoying the quiet, dignified atmosphere include Charles E. Wilson, retired president of General Electric; Murray Silverstone, movie mogul of 20th Century-Fox; toy manufacturer Louis Marx; Laurence Tisch, president of Loew's theatrical enterprises, and numbers of noted New York doctors and corporation lawyers.

News Briefs

BLOOMSBURY, N. J. (AP)—Mrs. Josephine Kemmerer, 46, of Reading, Pa., was killed Thursday and three of her daughters injured when their car and a tractor-trailer truck collided. The truck driver, Vincent Ranone, 43, of Cannonsburg, Pa., was not hurt. Police said both vehicles were traveling east on Route 78. The injured daughters were Judith, 13, Barbara, 17, and Linda, 16. All were admitted to Warren Hospital in Phillipsburg.

YORK, Pa. (AP)—Max Klinefelter, 41, of York, driving eastward alone on Whiteford road just north of York, was killed Friday when his automobile struck a bridge pier.

The Weeders Guide

By EARL ARONSON
The Associated Press

When the lady said she was planning neighborhood crabgrass-killing lawn party she was serious. Crabgrass has no respect for property lines; it needs only a breeze to help it cross boundaries. Unless the entire neighborhood takes steps to eradicate the annual pesky weed, you'll get it despite solo efforts to fight it.

Ingredients for such a lawn party are enough crabgrass killer to cover all lawn areas, willing hands, a pool of available equipment and workers who will move from house to house. You could wind up with a cookout celebration for the weed vigilantes. You might even become reacquainted with your neighbors after the winter hibernation.

Crabgrass sprouts each year from seeds produced the previous season. It grows quickly, choking out desirable grasses.

BEST METHOD

The most successful method of eradicating crabgrass is with a pre-emergence crabgrass killer that destroys the weed seeds as they germinate and before they cause serious problems.

Calcium arsenate, one effective chemical, will retain some strength for several years. Application in powder form should be at the rate of 12 pounds per 1,000 square feet.

Many chemical companies produce crabgrass killers. Some tested chemicals are dacthal and zyon.

USE WITH CARE

The Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station reported that dacthal will not harm your hard-working earthworm allies. Nor will zyon when applied at the rate recommended by the manufacturer. At double the rate, the earthworm population was reduced by 52 per cent.

Pax, an arsenical product, is effective against some soil insects, including beetle grubs, but it is harmful to earthworms.

Tricalcium arsenate controls beetle grubs but is lethal to earthworms. Chlordane, another crabgrass control, reduced the number of earthworms by 89 per cent when applied at rates recommended for crabgrass control in a station test.

MOWING HEIGHT

Diphenthrate had no apparent effect on beetle grubs or earth-

Engineers Field Artillery Shells

DOVER, N. J. (AP) — Engineers at Picatinny Arsenal, the Army's research center for ammunition and special weapons are able to catch artillery shells on the fly.

The feat is achieved by synchronizing the firing of a 155 mm gun and the launching of a rocket sled, traveling in the same direction as the shell.

The shell, which moves at a speed of 1,625 feet per second, plows undamaged into a padded box on the sled, which rockets along at 1,450 feet per second.

The method was developed to enable engineers to study initial firing effects on shells.

worms.

Dr. John F. Ahrens of the Connecticut station said that no cultural practice was more important in controlling crabgrass on an established lawn than proper height of mowing.

A test with 11 different turf grasses showed that raising the mowing height from one inch to two inches reduced stands of crabgrass from 33 to 12 plants to the square foot.

Dr. Ahrens also reported that some pre-emergence crabgrass killers, particularly zytion and calcium propyl arsonate, also were effective in the early seedling stages.

FREQUENT USE

Herbicides that control only emerged crabgrass must be applied several times during the season.

The manufacturer of dacthal (Diamond Chemicals) reports that it is safe for pets and people. The recommended dosage is 10-12 pounds per acre. It is also advertised as effective against grass, goosegrass, green and yellow foxtail and such broadleaf weeds as carpetweed, common chickweed, lambsquarter and purslane.

The turnip is the source of a new insecticide harmless to man. Two University of Wisconsin researchers reported they discovered the insecticidal value of the compound two-phenylisothiocyanate when they observed that vinegar flies placed in jars of mashed raw turnips died.

The insecticide reportedly is effective against houseflies, aphids, Mexican bean beetles, German cockroaches and mites.

ADENAUER AND RUSK AGREE ON BERLIN ISSUE

By JOHN WEYLAND

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said he and U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk had reached full agreement on Berlin and all other matters of mutual U.S.-West German interest at a private meeting Friday.

Rusk, continuing his fence-mending tour of West European capitals, met for 70 minutes with the West German government head with only an interpreter present. Adenauer said they had "reached full agreement on all big questions."

"Our thoughts and aims coincide," the chancellor told newsmen. "I am very happy that we could have this very frank, confidential talk."

INCLUDES BERLIN

Adenauer said specifically that the area of full agreement included Berlin, one of the chief previous issues in disagreement between the chancellor and President Kennedy's administration.

Neither Adenauer nor Rusk gave further details of their talk.

Adenauer, along with French President Charles de Gaulle, has felt that nothing would be gained from exploratory talks on West Berlin between the United States and the Soviet Union. He also had bitterly opposed American proposals for a compromise on Berlin.

RUSK STATEMENT

Rusk told newsmen it was a great privilege to discuss a great many subjects of interest to the free world in the present situation.

"Any American president and secretary of state has welcomed the opportunity of talking with the chancellor and profiting from his wisdom and experience," Rusk said.

ACCEPT RESPONSIBILITY

"We accept our responsibility in the Atlantic community gladly. I have brought warm greetings from President Kennedy and the respect and admiration of the American people."

Both men were smiling broadly for photographers. The 86-year-old chancellor appeared in an exceptionally good humor and bantered with newsmen.

Rusk indicated before he began his day-long conferences with Adenauer, Foreign Secretary Gerhard Schroeder and other officials that he would not budge from his determination to continue his talks with the Soviets on the Berlin problem.

Approximately 15 per cent of farm people enumerated in the 1960 census had lived their entire lives in the same house.

Runaway Truck Slices Building Fronts; 1 Dead

DICKSON CITY, Pa. (AP)—A runaway tractor-trailer truck, which police said apparently lost its brakes while descending a steep hill, sliced across the front of several buildings Thursday night, leaving one person dead and seven others injured.

Acting Police Chief Edward Kulas said the driver of the truck, Edward Goodman, 24, of Palmyra, N.Y., blazed away at his horn as the truck ran wild down the Dundaff Street hill in this eastern Pennsylvania community near Scranton. Goodman was seriously injured.

Police said the truck, loaded with frozen foods, hit two parked cars, sheared off a pole, sliced off a two-story porch several persons had been sitting on, and ripped across a shoe repair shop before coming to a stop inside the recreation room of the Sunshine Cafe.

Killed was Leonard Buza, 15. His mother, Mrs. Charles Buza, witnessed the accident. She became hysterical and had to be carried from the scene.

Kulas said Leonard was one of several persons sitting on the steps of the porch which is the front of a combination candy store and substation post office. The store is owned by Hedley Mason.

After cutting the path sideways through the tightly adjoining buildings, the tractor veered to the left and plowed straight ahead into the recreation room of the cafe. The trailer remained stationary but tipped toward its right.

PINNED 45 MINUTES

Goodman, who was pinned in the wreckage for 45 minutes before rescue workers freed him with crowbars, suffered a broken leg and chest injuries. He was admitted to Scranton State Hospital. Police decided against using acetylene torches for fear of fire since the truck refrigeration system contained ammonia.

Also seriously injured were Francis Visocky, 18, Duke Os-

2 AIR LINES TO BE STRUCK AT 1 P.M. TODAY

NEW YORK (AP)—The Flight Engineers International Association, AFL-CIO, said it would strike Eastern Air Lines and Pan American World Airways at 1 p.m. EST today despite a National Mediation Board offer to step in as peacemaker.

"All the mechanics for a peaceful settlement of this dispute were exhausted long ago," a union spokesman said Friday night in announcing the union would carry out the strike regardless of the board's offer.

Eastern Air Lines President Malcolm A. MacIntyre said a strike would force the airline to shut down operations. A Pan American official said Pan Am would continue to operate, but he didn't say how.

The union announced Friday it would strike unless new contracts were reached. It rejected as "completely unsatisfactory" the proposed settlement worked out for a similar dispute between the engineers and Trans World Airlines.

The tentative TWA agreement, reached with the aid of Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, is subject to approval by union members employed by the line. It would resolve a two-year dispute on manning of jet cockpits.

In telegrams Friday night to the union, Eastern and Pan Am, the National Mediation Board asked that no strike action be taken pending a proposed meeting here Monday between their negotiators and board member Francis O'Neill Jr.

Board member Robert O. Boyd said in Washington it was the board's opinion that, in offering its services, both sides are required under terms of the Railway Labor Act to maintain the status quo.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Federal mediators say that representatives of Local 1, Bricklayers Union, and of the M. H. McCloskey Co. will meet Sunday to try to end a seven-week strike of 1,000 bricklayers.

Edmund P. Reilly, chief negotiator for the local, has said that most of the local's members are working on jobs out of town.

Negotiations broke down on June 8 over the size of a pay and pension package. Wage scales had been $4.40 an hour plus 17 cents an hour welfare payment.

Last Wednesday the Employing Bricklayers Association of Delaware Valley said it was dissolving since several of its members had signed separate contracts with the bricklayers local.

The construction of apartments, hospitals and schools in Philadelphia has been slowed by the strike.

Ex-King Farouk Files Libel Action

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A $750,000 damage suit was filed Friday for Egypt's former King Farouk, claiming Madame Sherry, one-time Miami bawdy house operator, libeled him in her book, "Pleasure Was My Business."

Co-defendant in the suit was S. Robert Trainor, who wrote the book for Madame Sherry, identified as Ruth Barnes.

City Girls Tackle Chores On Farm

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Two Oklahoma girls with a yen for open spaces are proving that a city working girl doesn't have to be bound to an apartment.

After two years as roommates in Tulsa, Donna Kuhlman, 25, and Joan Gregory, 31, moved to a farm.

"We just got tired of telling yelling and tiring seeping," they explained. "And most of all, we were getting a little wide in the wrong places sitting around with nothing to do."

That was before last June, when they moved to a six-acre farm on the fringe of the city, only five minutes by expressway from their jobs in Tulsa. "We don't have much time to get bored any more," Donna said. "Taking care of the yard nearly worked us to death last summer."

Next summer they plan to put in a garden, install some chickens and reseed the pasture. They may add a calf to the farm's livestock, which now includes seven cats and two horses.

PROBERS DIG WRECKAGE OF PLANE CRASH

By HORST BUCHHOLZ
POINTE-A-PITRE, Gadeloupe (AP)—French and American aviation experts converged today on a scorched swath of tropical rain jungle where an Air France Boeing 707 jetliner crashed in a raging thunderstorm after reporting landing gear trouble. All 112 persons aboard were killed.

Police blocked off the crash scene until representatives of the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board and Federal Aviation Agency teamed with French air experts from Paris to inspect wreckage of the second worst single-plane disaster in commercial aviation history.

flames on this French Caribbean island early Friday shortly after winging over Pointe-A-Pitre's Ratzet Airfield in the start of a landing approach after a flight from Paris.

RADIOED TROUBLE

Officials said the pilot radioed as he passed over the field that he was having difficulty getting the landing gear down. The plane then swept out over the sea.

Minutes later, the control tower radar lost contact at about the same time explosions in the distance were noted. The explosions were taken by some as lightning crackling in the storm. But after daylight searchers spotted the wreckage on Mule's Back Hill 18 miles from the field, and one witness reported: "Nothing left . . . a horrible sight."

The plane slammed into the hill about 500 feet below its 2,000-foot crest, off the usual landing approach pattern. The pilot of another Air France liner here blamed the crash on the thunderstorm, saying "the ceiling was very low."

BODIES IN TREES

The fiery crash scattered wreckage over more than a mile of the thick undergrowth. Bodies hung from trees. A small girl, one of 11 youngsters killed in the crash, still clutched her doll in death.

Air France officials revised the casualty list several times Friday, finally placing the dead at 102 passengers and 10 crew members. No Americans were reported aboard.

This toll in a single-plane crash was exceeded only by the crash of another Air France Boeing 707 jet early this month which killed 130 persons, including 121 Americans on a European tour sponsored by the Atlanta Art Association.

FIVE BIG CRASHES

The big Boeing jetliners have been involved in five commercial airline crashes killing a total of 303 persons in the past 17 months.

The London Daily Sketch urged today that the Boeing jets be grounded "until an acceptable explanation is found" for the crashes. But the Federal Aviation Agency said in Washington Friday that it has no present plans to order them grounded.

"We have no evidence at this time on which to ground them," an FAA spokesman said. "If any evidence turns up we will ground them."

The downed plane was piloted by Capt. Andre Lesieur, one of Air France's most experienced pilots who had flown jets for President Charles de Gaulle on several occasions.

The casual felt hat, fedora, was named for the feminine lead of the 19th Century play, "Fedora," by Vitorien Sardou. Though popularized for women by the Princess Fedora of the title role, the style was later modified and adopted by men.

Emmett Kelly, Famous Clown, Does Special Without Makeup Or Mimicry 10 p.m., July 1

Emmett Kelly, who has made millions of people laugh by keeping silent, will do most of the talking in "Circus."

The "Project 20" show about life under the big top will be the first of a series of selected repeats on the "Du Pont Show of the Week," Sunday, July 1, 10-11 p.m. NYT, NBC-TV.

Some people are surprised that Kelly — probably the greatest clown in history — agreed to appear on the show without makeup. They're even more surprised that the famous mimic will use his speaking voice.

CLOSE BONDS

"Normally, I keep my mouth shut," said Kelly. "But the circus is close to my heart. And I want to tell people about it."

bones. That taught me a lesson — it's safer down on the ground. I've been more interested in laughs than thrills ever since."

Despite his experience with the trapeze, Kelly is a phenomenally courageous man. He was at the height of his fame when, in 1944, the circus tent caught fire during a performance in Hartford, Conn.

Eye-witnesses recall Kelly, warm but critical audience.

"If they're amused, they really laugh. But try to give a kid less than your best effort — and he'll clam up."

Kelly usually has no problems making children, or adults for that matter, roar with laughter. But a few onlookers have stumped him.

"King Haile Selassie of Ethio-

EMMETT KELLY . . . gets into his famous ragged clown costume for one sequence of "Circus" on the "Du Pont Show of the Week" Sunday, July 1, 10-11 p.m. on NBC-TV. But through most of the show, you'll meet Emmett as he really looks—he's narrating the hour-long special.

"There's a feeling of brotherhood that binds circus people together. When a circus man is in trouble, every clown, trapeze artist, bareback rider and animal trainer will rush to his rescue."

Kelly's voice is deep and pleasant, reminiscent of his Ozark Mountains upbringing.

"I was born in Missouri," he recalled. "Every year, a circus would come to town — for one day — and I'd somehow scrape enough pennies together to see it."

ENTERTAIN CHILDREN

"After the circus left, I'd imitate the clowns and give shows for the other kids."

Kelly's career began with a touring carnival, "Irene Lackman's Dog and Pony Act." It was a third-rate show, but it gave the aspiring clown excellent training.

"There was just one thing wrong with being a clown," said Kelly. "The girls always went for the trapeze artists."

"I thought I was a pretty dashing young feller in those days — and I was jealous. So, at nights, I rehearsed on the trapeze and high wire. For 10 years I gave up clowning to do a trapeze act."

PREFERS LAUGHS

"Then I fell and broke a few dressed in the ragged clothes and the painted smile which are his trademark, directing children to the exits — like a traffic cop — while the flames licked around him.

Afterward, an executive of the Ringling Brothers Circus credited Kelly with saving hundreds of lives.

REMEMBER GOOD TIMES

"But I prefer to remember the good times," said the clown. "And that's what this 'Circus' show on TV is about. There are several acts — like Norma, the trapeze artist, and the Wallendas on the high wire — but we also try to get behind the scenes."

"We show how hard circus folk work to perfect their skills and what it's like to travel from one town to the next every day."

"And we show the kids!

"Someone said that there's never been a kid who didn't want to run away with the circus — and I guess it's true. Watch the faces of children when a trapeze artist is spinning through the air, and you know that the big top will never die."

YOUNG TERS CRITICAL

To Kelly, youngsters are a pia never cracked a smile. And Winston Churchill — he just kept puffing on a big black cigar, so you couldn't tell if he was amused or not.

"But Franklin D. Roosevelt loved a circus. I clown for him two or three times, and he always enjoyed himself."

WAS FREELANCER

After many years with Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus, Kelly decided to freelance not long ago. He now makes his home in Sarasota, Fla. where hundreds of circus performers live, but travels all over the country to appear at carnivals, benefits, Shrine Circuses and other events.

Normally, he appears in a torn, tattered tramp's outfit with a melancholy, mournful expression painted on his face.

"Now, for the first time, I'll be on TV as myself," he said. "And I know that a good many people will say, 'So that's what he looks like. Well, he isn't really so funny!'"

"But I'm not doing this show to be funny."

"I've heard people say that the circus is dead. So I'm going on

Chet Huntley of the Huntley-Brinkley Report on NBC-TV has been tabbed for the VIP panel to formulate plans for a memorial to Woodrow Wilson. President Kennedy named Huntley to join several other bigwigs on the panel.

Busiest writer in Hollywood is undoubtedly Joanna Lee. She's been signed to create 11 scripts, five for "The Flintstones," four for "The Jetsons," both shows being animated by Hanna-Barbera. The others are "Our Man Higgins" and "My Three Sors."

Garry Moore has already been set for a September 24 special finding him teamed with Jack Benny, Lucille Ball, Danny Thomas and Andy Griffith.

Sing Along's Mitch Miller offers a simile: As hard to catch as a waiter's eye!

To Tell the Truth's Tom Poston tells of the girl who inherited her beauty . . . her father left her a cosmetic company!

Alan Reed of "The Flintstones" observes that many marriages crack up when the installment collector cracks down!

A homely bit player in "Beverly Hillbillies," coming to CBS-TV next season, says she's joining a correspondence club in the hope of getting some first class male!

David Brinkley of the Huntley-Brinkley Report suggests that one way to be well-heeled is to stay on your toes!

Tall Man's Barry Sullivan tells of the girl who took a 9 to 5 job in Las Vegas. It wasn't a very good job but she liked the odds!

DENNIS O'KEEFE and Yvonne De Carlo guest star in a comedy on "Follow the Sun" this Sunday. . . . Cesare Siepi and Sally Ann Howes will be among the guest performers when the Voice of Firestone returns to TV Sunday, September 30. . . . Comic-magician Carl Ballantine will be a regular in Ernest Borgnine's "McHales Men" series premiering in the fall. . . . "The World of Jacqueline Kennedy" is scheduled for the fall. . . . Benny Goodman is also slated for a "World" presentation next season. . . . Add "Pete and Gladys" to the CBS cancellation list; however, Cara Williams has been signed to a one-year exclusive TV pact by CBS who is grooming her for a comedy series in the future.

HUNTLEY AND BRINKLEY will question John Bailey and Republican William Miller (R-N. Y.) in the first of eight special pre-election programs, Sunday, August 26, at 6 p.m. . . . Dennis Weaver returns to "Gunsmoke" next season in 15 episodes; his prospective variety series, "TV Tonight," has been shelved temporarily. . . . ABC telecasts the College All-Star football game Friday, August 3, at 10 p.m. . . . John Wayne makes an infrequent TV appearance in an Alcoa Theater baseball drama which will star Jimmy Stewart in the fall. Wayne will be seen briefly as an umpire. Don Drysdale will also be in the cast with John Ford directing. . . . A foundation set up by producer Bob Banner will enable qualified college students interested in a TV career to observe actual work on TV programs.

A DAYTIME TV show for Arthur Godfrey is in the works at CBS for the fall. . . . "The Secret Storm," daytime serial, will be extended from 15 minutes to a half-hour. . . . Richard Rust to co-star with Edmond O'Brien in "Sam Benedict" which will be seen Saturday night 7:30; Claude Rains is guest on the initial episode. . . . Frank Blair signed a long term deal to continue on the Today show. . . . Shirley Jones set for a Perry Como show in the fall.

Paul Henning, whose "Beverly Hillbillies" will be a CBS-TV fall entry, tells of the depressed Hollywood actor who had been unemployed for so long he couldn't remember when he had last worked. He was finally offered a summer stock role for a mere $10, to play the ghost in "Hamlet." He took it just to show the old spirit!

Clu Gulager, who is Billy the Kid on "Tall Man," has been signed to star with Carol Lynley in "Final Vow," which will be the next season's opener for the Alfred Hitchcock Hour.

NBC reporter Edwin Newman gets the call to substitute for David Brinkley when the latter vacations from the Huntley-Brinkley Report on NBC-TV this month. Brinkley heads for Europe where he'll film subjects for his David Brinkley's Journal.

Paladin's Son To Be In TV Episode

Peter Boone, 9, speaks his first lines as an actor when he appears with his father, Richard Boone, in an upcoming "Have Gun, Will Travel" episode now in production.

According to Boone, who stars as Paladin in the series, son Peter already thinks like a professional actor. Boone showed Peter the script, in which the boy has four lines, then asked his son what he thought of the part. The answer, "Oh, it's okay, Dad — what there is of it."

Nine in 10 households now have television sets and one in eight has two or more.

Cartoon Factory Has No Time Clocks

When you walk into the offices of Hanna-Barbera Productions in the heart of Hollywood, you notice an immediate difference from the atmosphere surrounding other filmmaking movie-making operations.

To start with, there are no time clocks. Red tape is nonexistent. No memos are written. If an employee has a problem, he walks directly to the office of either Bill Hanna or Joe Barbera, presents it — and gets an immediate answer. If one of the artists or writers at the company — which shows as "The Flintstones" on ABC-TV — feels like working at home, he can mail the results in.

The individual is king at Hanna-Barbera. And this is one of the reasons for the extraordinary success, humor and lack of headaches at Hollywood's top television cartoon factory — which started with seven people on its payroll, four and one half years ago and now employs 230.

TV FELLOWSHIPS

A plan to stimulate the flow of qualified young people into television has been announced by producer Bob Banner. A series of Fellowships has been established by the Banner Foundation to offer students, with the appropriate educational background and a sincere desire for a career in television, an opportunity for on-the-scene participation during the creating and organizing of weekly and special network television programs.

The famous "Neanderthal slouch," believed to be the posture of the 50,000-year-old forerunner of modern man, might actually have been caused by arthritis, a common condition of the time.

Sea Adventures Forecast For 63-64

On the theory that "Medic"-type shows will have run their course next season, many sponsors have instructed their representatives to seek a type of program that hasn't been overdone. Insiders say the major trend for the 1963-64 season will be stories of sea adventures.

Concrete evidence of this movement are the overtures now being made to one of the leading novelists of ocean sagas, Robert F. Mervish. Already the author of a dozen action-filled books that range in local from Murmansk to Montevideo and from the North Pole to the Persian Gulf, Mervish believes he knows the reasons why.

"Novels with a sea background offer the television viewer a new type of escapist entertainment, one that Westerns and gangster films don't supply. Moreover, many people secretly harbor a yearning to go to sea, so this kind of program gives them a vicarious satisfaction that's fresh and exciting. And, of course, there's always the magic of seeing exotic ports and strange countries, which any tourist aide will tell you is the reason for the current boom in world travel."

Mervish's twelfth novel, "Point of Impact," was recently released, and another is due in August.

"And," he adds with a grin, "I've got a trunkful of ideas for even more stories!"

Movie Producer Is Unaware Of Ads

The TV story of the week comes from Hal Stanley, whose "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" debuts on ABC-TV this fall. According to Hal there are still a number of movie producers who refuse to admit that such a thing as television exists. One of these die-hards, however, was finally persuaded by friends to watch a set for the first time because the late show was going to revive a movie he had produced 20 years ago. The producer watched and listened without saying a word until the feature was ended. Then he shook his head in puzzlement.

"I can't understand it," he told a friend. "Although I made that picture 20 years ago, I thought I remembered everything about it. But, I guess I don't. For instance, in the middle of the picture — the big mystery scene — where the villain shoots the heroine . . . all of a sudden a new character comes into the picture and tries to sell me a used car!"

Petite Gigi Perreau, a co-star of ABC-TV's "Follow the Sun," has one of the longest names in show business. Including her given, maiden surname and married name, plus confirmation name, it adds up to the following: Mrs. Grisoline Elizabeth Marie Therese Perreau-Saussine Gallo.

Gourmet King Kept His Queen Happy

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Take the culinary arts of Hungary and Italy, blend them together and the result is highly edible.

Hungary's Renaissance King Matthias started it when he married an Italian princess.

To appease her homesickness he imported cheeses, spices, condiments and other foodstuffs from Italy.

Bonfini, King Matthias's court chronicler, wrote that the queen sent a message to her sister in Ferrara, thanking her for onions and garlic received.

"If they had been made of pearls, the King and I could have been no happier," she wrote.

When the King expected guests for dinner, he would personally supervise the cooking, according to Bonfini.

Bees hum by vibrating their wings rapidly. They do not produce any sound with their mouth parts.
